SIMPLE TESTS PROVE PORCELAIN ENAMEL SUPERIORITY

Take a silver quarter. Rub the edge across the shining white surface of a "First Quality" labeled Porcelain Enamel table top. Rub hard enough to make a black mark on the Porcelain Enamel. Has the enamel rubbed off? NO! The black mark is silver rubbed off the quarter. A damp cloth, a few light strokes, and the top is shining white again. Now you know how Porcelain Enamel resists abrasion in ordinary use.

Take a freshly cut lemon. Put the freshly cut slice, dripping with juice, on the top of your table. Let it stay there overnight—24 hours if you wish. Then see how a damp cloth will wipe away the lemon juice, leaving the shining Porcelain Enamel finish unmarked. Now you know that acid foods won't stain "First Quality" Porcelain Enamel!

Now take a lighted cigarette or match. Place it on your Porcelain Enamel table top, and let it burn itself out. Your damp cloth will remove every trace of soot and discoloration—the finish remains unmarked. Now you know that pots and pans—even at oven temperatures—cannot harm Porcelain Enamel.

Make sure the set you buy has a Genuine Porcelain Enamel Top!
